The Spirit of The Miner

He was the illegitimate son of a Polish-German miner from Pomerania who, despite living in Lower Silesia, identified as Polish. His mother was the daughter of a Silesian knight of Lusatian origin. His brother was taken and replaced by a Dziwożona (a Slavic woodland demon), who left behind her own half-demon, half-human child. This changeling now helps the Spirit of the Miner to rescue his true brother from the void.

The Lady

And this Lady was a herbalist and the beloved of his brother. Now she too wants to save her man, helping him and the half-demon, half-human. She was the illegitimate daughter of the knight Bolesław II the Bold and a peasant's daughter from the Polish-Hungarian borderland. She had two brothers.

And that black spirit is a Damned Soul - the wraith of her cruel and evil ex-boyfriend, who was half-Polish and half-Tatar.

Demon & Licho

And that red(!) Demon is
"The Bloody One," who fights the "Changeling."

Licho

And this Licho (a personification of bad luck in Slavic mythology) caused him pain and suffering, and it appeared as a woman with one eye.
